為社會可持續發展出力

九龍倉集團（「集團」）秉承「創建明天」的願景，多年來一直致力回饋社會。集團除了單純捐款支援慈善機構工作的行善模式，更提倡「社、企共勉」（Business-in-Community），推動商界入社群，凝聚社會各界，直接與有需要人士互動，透過積極參與義工服務，回應社會需要。「社、企共勉」在過去十二年穩步成長，並多軌行善，致力為社會及下一代創建美好明天。

年輕人是社會的未來棟樑，是香港的希望，集團本着商界入社群宗旨，致力發展三大項目助年輕人，包括跨企業、跨界別支援基層中學生的「學校起動」計劃、推動本地藝術文化發展的全港性「九龍倉全港中學生繪畫比賽」，以及助本地建築系碩士畢業生拓闊設計視野的「建築設計實習計劃」。

「學校起動」計劃逾8萬學生受惠

計劃在二〇一一年推出，是一個開放平台，歡迎機構及有能之士跨界別協作，以一校一企業的模式，全方位改善教、學效能，為香港資源匱乏的中學及學習條件稍遜的中學生提供額外資源及機會。

該計劃年中舉辦多元化活動，包括「趁墟做老闆」、「生涯規劃日」、「職場體驗計劃」和企業參觀等助學生拓闊眼界；此外，更設有獎學金鼓勵學生考入本地大學，同時減輕他們攻讀大學的財政負擔。

「學校起動」計劃基金會創辦人吳光正：「基層學生可能在起步時的條件不理想，但並不反映他們的能力，希望讓他們及早裝備投身職場的基本技能、建立信心和培養個人特質，贏在職場起跑線。」

九龍倉集團主席兼常務董事吳天海：「年輕人要抱着「三開」（3Os）一張開眼睛、張開腦袋、放開心胸的求知態度，把握機會、汲取知識，及早為未來籌謀。」

香港報業公會 The Newspaper Society of Hong Kong

局也有所改變，網絡媒體蓬勃，數位資訊豐富，報業融合科技發展乃不可逆轉趨勢。香港多家報業在紙媒基礎上已積極電子化，內容與科技相融，提升活躍度和流量，以更年輕化、便捷和個性化的傳播方式擴大影響力，亦推動報業的廣告收入達到可持續發展模式。

誠然，報業升級轉型不乏挑戰，投放大量資源之餘，既要懂得借助科網平台力量，又要慎防被剝削成果。為了擺脫科技巨企「霸權式」經營手法，報業公會成立了聯合電子廣告銷售平台「報網通」，通過成員報章合作，提供一個具公信力和良好內容環境的一站式網上廣告投放渠道。在這個銷售平台，廣告商可以直接選擇在一家或多家報章投放網上廣告，更加準確地向目標讀者發放訊息；各報章也能賺取應得利潤，更好地服務讀者及照顧員工福祉。

在數碼世代，科技發展與應用為傳媒產業帶來新機遇。在追求流量吸引受眾的同時，業界必須認識自身價值、堅持其核心

使命、重視內容質素、保留報業的綜合性、權威性、具影響力等優勢，並重視新聞從業員專業培育，承先啟後，維繫傳媒生態發展。

2022年度「香港最佳新聞獎」的參賽新聞作品水準相當高，反映各成員報章不懈精益求精，維護新聞質素。在此，我謹代表香港報業公會感謝社會各界支持，尤其是所有評審委員及各家贊助機構。衷心祝賀2022年度最佳新聞獎的得獎者，更要感謝新聞界同業對專業的貢獻和付出。展望未來，香港報業公會定必繼續恪守使命，提升業界各領域專業水準，推動香港報業發展更上一層樓。

香港報業公會主席
郭艷明

香港抗疫三年，終於從艱難日子步向復常，經濟有望復甦，但社會內外仍面對不少挑戰，這時候更加需要「好新聞」匡正時弊，循不同角度「說好香港故事」。「以史為鏡，可以知興替。以人為鏡，可以明得失」，以新聞為鏡，有助各界洞悉現實、汲取經驗、穩步前行，香港報業及一眾媒體在任何環境都肩負社會責任，以專業態度提供優質資訊。

與此同時，近三年疫情期間，傳媒行業格

As Hong Kong leaves behind the trying days of the pandemic and the economy sets to right itself, serious challenges remain. The need for "Good News" is ever more present, along with telling the "Good Stories of Hong Kong" from different angles. Referencing an ancient Chinese proverb, "From history, we learn the good and bad; from our past, we learn the gains and losses," it is from daily news that we all learn the facts and important events as we move steadily forward. The Hong Kong media has been shouldering this social responsibility, providing high-quality information with professionalism.

The newspaper industry has transformed under the pandemic. With the growth of online media and, with it, digital information, the trend of incorporating technology into newspapers appears irreversible. Many newspaper organisations have been undergoing active digitisation, moving from their roots in print. The marriage between content and technology has boosted traffic and readership, broadening the media's reach of and influence over young minds in a more timely and personalised manner. This union has also brought in higher income generated by ad sales, helping newspaper agencies attain sustainability.

Reinvigorating the industry is no easy task. In addition to costly investment, we also need to rely on the power of tech platforms, all the while guarding against our hard work from being exploited. To shake off the "hegemonic" business practices of tech giants, the Newspaper Society of Hong Kong - in collaboration with member organisations - launched "NewsocHub", a joint platform for multimedia advertising sales offering a one-stop online ad hub that is credible and has an excellent content environment. Through this hub, advertisers can deliver their message to their intended audience with higher accuracy by being able to choose for themselves whether to place ads in a single agency or multiple agencies. Newspaper organisations, their staff, as well as readers and viewers will also benefit as income generated from the hub will ultimately help lead to better content and the better care of employees.

The development and application of technology has brought the industry new opportunities. In the chase for traffic and readership, we must remain aware of our values, persistent in our core missions, and conscientious in delivering quality content. We must also preserve the comprehensiveness, authority, influence, and the many edges afforded by us. Equally important is that we serve as a link between the past and the future in our work to continue nurturing news professionals that will sustain the growth of the media ecosphere.

The quality of all the entries in the 2022 Hong Kong News Awards is magnificent. This shows that our members are always striving for the best and working hard to defend the quality of content.

On behalf of the Newspaper Society of Hong Kong, I would like to thank all sectors of society, especially members of the judging panels and sponsoring organisations. I congratulate, with all my heart, the winners of the awards. I would also like to thank all journalists for their contribution and dedication to the industry.

Looking ahead, the Newspaper Society of Hong Kong will continue to stand by its mission, raising the professional standards of our industry and pushing it to reach new heights.

Cloud of nationalism hangs over congress

From Ukraine to Cold-19, nationalist opinions are dominating public debate online and leaders will have to take them into account as they prepare for the five-yearly gathering

By Jun Mai

As the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China (CPC) opens in Beijing on Monday, a cloud of nationalism hangs over the gathering. In the past few days, nationalist sentiment has been fuelled by reports of the Chinese government's actions in Ukraine and the 19th anniversary of the Tiananmen Square protests.

On the issue of Ukraine, the Chinese government has been accused of interfering in the country's internal affairs. The Chinese government's actions in Ukraine have been widely criticized by the international community.

The 19th anniversary of the Tiananmen Square protests has also been a source of nationalist sentiment. The Chinese government's actions in Tiananmen Square have been widely criticized by the international community.

Some Chinese intellectuals have been critical of the government's actions in Ukraine. They have argued that the government's actions in Ukraine are a violation of international law.

Widespread censorship has created such a warped public opinion space. The Chinese government's actions in Ukraine have been widely criticized by the international community.

Red flags raised as world goes green

In a world obsessed with green values and environmental, social and governance risks, the move towards clean energy is inexorably driving up commodity prices. Themis Qi reports.

A few days before Davos 2022 opened its doors and amid growing fears that world inflation with going green is helping drive inflation through the roof, a top banker at HSBC (0005) stirred up a storm after he said the risks about climate change were being vastly exaggerated.

Stuart Kirk, the head of responsible investment at the bank's asset management unit, criticized HSBC for paying too much attention to climate and other environmental and social issues at a conference on moral investing, saying climate change was "not a financial risk that we need to worry about" and the warnings were "unsubstantiated".

Kirk's comments were in direct contrast to leaders at the World Economic Forum, who last week warned that climate change was one of four major international threats – the other three being an energy crisis, high inflation and poverty – that could plunge the world into recession.

China's special climate envoy Xi Zhenhua told delegates at the Swiss think-fest that world "cannot abandon" the Paris Agreement on climate change and urged all countries to work together and "walk the walk" on fighting climate change.

While HSBC quickly distanced itself from the comments and suspended Kirk, his railing against climate risk and discommodities together with the warnings from Davos on climate change and fossil fuels brought to light uncomfortable truths about the price we are paying for a zero-carbon future, in what's come to be known as "greenflation".

The term greenflation describes rise in the price of materials used in the creation of green energy such as aluminum, copper, nickel and steel. But prices for fossil fuels too have been soaring amid declining investments in the sector and rampant demand. And lenders who have been keeping away from investments in fossil fuels, are unsurprised that there is no extra capacity to bring down prices.

IN DEMAND

Across the board, commodity prices have been rising at the fastest rate since 1995 and supply disruptions caused by the Covid pandemic, geopolitics and a crippling war in Ukraine.

And while the world's busy pursuing green targets, investments in production and supply have lagged, leading to skyrocketing prices, according to investment firm Schroders.

Though inflation has accelerated after Russia attacked Ukraine in February, commodity prices have been on the rise over the past two years amid increasing demand, especially for metals and metals used in the transition to cleaner energy.

It's not hard to understand why. Electric cars, for example, uses six times more minerals than conventional ones – including 65.3 kilograms of graphite, 5.2 kg of copper, 35.9 kg of nickel, 24.5 kg of manganese, 13.3 kg of cobalt and 8.9 kg of lithium per vehicle – while an offshore wind plant requires over seven times the amount of copper compared to a gas-fired plant.

A key ingredient in lithium batteries, the price of nickel rose 38 percent between February and April this year, and is up more than 60 percent year on year. Lithium, meanwhile, has skyrocketed more than 400 percent over 12 months, leading Chinese EV makers to raise prices by up to nearly 14 percent since the start of the year, a report by Fitch Ratings shows.

But electric cars are just one small part of the net-zero puzzle. As their numbers grow, more electric grids will be needed. Copper is used to build these grids, and while the metal's price has fallen in 2022, it has risen by more than 40 percent over the past two years.

Fossil fuels too have soared. Coal, used to produce copper, electricity and aluminum, has been testing new highs with coal from South Africa up 54 percent between February and April. In the United States, natural gas cost 70 percent more at US$6.53 (R$56.9) per metric ton (British thermal unit) in April than the average price in 2021 while in Europe, prices rose to US$32.20 per MMBtu in April due to the war in Ukraine.

And oil has surged more than 40 percent since the start of the year to record highs. Brent crude went as high as US$127 per barrel in early March, and was trading at US$117 last Friday. JP Morgan expects oil – which accounts for 37 percent of global energy needs – to remain the primary source of energy over the next decade and beyond.

Schroders warns that high gas and LNG prices might indirectly impact the cost of food as production costs for fertilizers rise and in turn increase the cost of agricultural produce.

Producers are more focused on cutting their carbon footprints than on boosting supply, and this is causing prices to rise

NO SMALL CHANGE

Meanwhile, investments in the transition to low-carbon energy hit a record US$755 billion last year, according to a BloombergNEF report, up 27 percent from 2020 and almost three times higher than a decade earlier.

The International Energy Agency says transition-related investment needs US$4 trillion a year to get on track for net zero emissions by 2050, while the International Renewable Energy Agency estimates an additional US$33 trillion will be required for investments in all energy transition technologies, with current plans to realize net zero emissions by 2050 accounting for investments of around US$98 trillion.

Schroders says producers are more focused on cutting their carbon footprints than on boosting supply, and this is causing prices to rise, while more funding is being earmarked for decarbonization than for boosting production capacity.

JP Morgan's data reveals that 22 percent of global investment in 2019 went towards energy efficiency, 16 percent to renewables and about 13 percent to power grids and energy feasibility.

Investors too are placing a premium on products that align with climate change. BloombergNEF says products with green metals and recycled plastics now command a 25 to 30 percent pricing premium.

Commitment by nations to net zero emissions are also playing a part in the narrative.

China is the world's largest supplier of aluminum but it is pushing its energy-intensive smelters away from coal power as it strives to meet carbon neutrality before 2060. Meanwhile in Europe, smelters have curtailed production due to high coal costs, sending aluminum prices higher.

Avil Securities chairman and chief executive Andrew Wong Wai hong says supply growth constraints will persist unless policymakers delay their decarbonization goals.

ALL ABOUT ESG

Besides carbon-neutral regulations, the rise in environmental, social and governance practices is also contributing to greenflation, as more and more investors pay attention to non-financial factors.

Bloomberg estimates ESG assets will account for a third of all global assets in 2025 at about US$53 trillion.

But the transition to green technologies cannot be regarded as 100 percent environmentally friendly as EV production and electricity generation drives up prices of commodities.

With this in mind, Wong suggests the approach to measuring ESG should take greenflation and hidden carbon emissions into consideration. "Measuring the carbon emissions by end-users could better reflect the real environmental value of a company's ESG practices," says Wong.

He says ESG should consider whether to include carbon emissions from the whole stream, as it otherwise won't benefit companies or their investors.

For now, though, as the world presses ahead towards a net zero future, it looks like greenflation is here to stay with the European Central Bank admitting that policies to tackle climate change are likely to keep energy prices higher for longer and the World Bank forecasting energy prices to rise more than 50 percent in 2022 before easing in 2023 and 2024.

In the near-term, higher prices threaten to disrupt or delay the transition to cleaner forms of energy. High metal prices are also driving up the cost of renewable energy, which depends on metals such as aluminum and battery-grade nickel, the World Bank says in its latest Commodity Markets Outlook report.

And the IEA, which last year warned investors not to fund new oil, gas and coal projects if the world wants to reach net zero emissions by mid-century, reiterated its plea at Davos 2022.

IEA chief Fatih Birol told delegates that energy crisis since Russia's invasion of Ukraine must not lead to a deeper dependence on fossil fuels, and that the right investments mean the world "need not choose between energy shortages and accelerated climate change due to fossil fuel emissions".

South cinema's got enough of the film's local stars to keep viewers' attention unblinkingly

BY FRANCINE CHEN

IT'S A GOOD SIGN that the local film industry is still producing quality work. The South China Morning Post's annual film festival, the 15th South China Morning Post Film Festival, is now in its 15th year. It's a testament to the industry's resilience and creativity.

Local cinema has been a staple of Hong Kong's entertainment scene for decades. From the golden age of the 1970s and 80s to the more experimental and diverse offerings of the 2000s and 2010s, local films have always found a way to connect with their audience.

One of the reasons for this success is the industry's ability to adapt to changing tastes and technologies. The rise of digital distribution and social media has opened up new avenues for local filmmakers to reach their audience.

Moreover, the industry has a strong tradition of storytelling and character-driven narratives. This has allowed local films to stand out in a global market dominated by big-budget Hollywood productions.

As the industry continues to evolve, it's exciting to see local filmmakers pushing the boundaries of what is possible in local cinema. The festival is a great opportunity for audiences to experience the best of local talent.

BEAL LOVE, TRICKED

There are a lot of good movies in the festival. One of the most interesting is 'Beal Love, Tricked'. It's a comedy-drama that explores the complexities of love and relationships in a modern context.

The film is directed by a local filmmaker who has a unique perspective on the subject. It's a well-crafted and entertaining piece that is sure to resonate with audiences.

THE EMERGENCE OF SEMI-CELEBRITIES IS A BIG REASON I WATCH THESE SHOWS

As a fan of local television, I can't help but notice the emergence of semi-celebrities. These are people who are not quite famous but have gained a certain level of recognition through their work on television.

This trend is a reflection of the changing media landscape. With the rise of reality shows and talent competitions, more people are being put in the spotlight. This has created a new class of semi-celebrities who are watched and talked about by their audience.

100,000 TO BE HURT

There are also some more serious films in the festival. One that caught my attention is '100,000 to be Hurt'. It's a powerful and thought-provoking work that addresses social issues and the human condition.

The film is a masterpiece of storytelling and cinematography. It's a must-watch for anyone who is interested in cinema that challenges and inspires.

STANDING OUT FROM THE CROWD

Finally, there are some films that are simply standing out from the crowd. These are the ones that are truly exceptional and deserve to be seen by as many people as possible.

The festival is a celebration of local talent and creativity. It's a chance for audiences to support and enjoy the work of local filmmakers. I encourage everyone to go and see some of the films on display.

YOU'VE GOT TO BE KIDDING!

Supprimer target for children aged six months to three years to get shingles jab

Health officials have announced a new target for the number of children aged six months to three years who should receive a shingles vaccine. The target is to reduce the number of children who do not receive the vaccine to 10 per cent.

The new target is a significant improvement on the current target of 20 per cent. It is a reflection of the government's commitment to improving the health of its citizens.

The shingles vaccine is a safe and effective way to protect children from the disease. It is a simple injection that can be given at a general practitioner's surgery or a community health centre.

The government is offering the vaccine free of charge to all eligible children. This is a great benefit for parents and a way to ensure that all children have access to the vaccine.

Parents are encouraged to take their children to their general practitioner to get the vaccine. It is a simple and painless procedure that can save a child from a painful and potentially serious illness.

The shingles vaccine is a key part of the government's strategy to reduce the burden of disease in Hong Kong. It is a simple and effective way to protect children from a common and potentially serious illness.

Parents should not miss this opportunity to protect their children. It is a simple and painless procedure that can save a child from a painful and potentially serious illness.
